Baby Isaiah dies after months on life support

Parents let 'tiny miracle' go following second medical opinion

Surrounded by family, a brain-injured baby died in the arms of his loving parents in an Edmonton hospital after they had spent months trying everything in their power to keep him alive.

Rebecka and Isaac May went to court in January to prevent doctors from unhooking their son Isaiah from a ventilator until they could get a second independent medical opinion. When those experts told them there was no hope their boy would recover, they made a decision no parent should ever face.

Rebecka May holds baby Isaiah in this undated family handout photo. The brain-injured baby, whose parents dropped a court battle to keep him on life support, died on Thursday.

The five-month-old boy died shortly after noon Thursday, only hours after his young parents were to appear in court again about the independent medical review of his condition. The hearing was cancelled. "We have set our tiny miracle free and he is now home in the arms of angels," the parents said in a statement read by their lawyer.

Isaiah was born with severe brain damage after his umbilical cord got wrapped around his throat, which deprived him of oxygen.

Oil, gas royalties cut back

INDUSTRY The Alberta government said Thursday it will slash its royalty take from oil and gas producers, many of whom responded to a new regime introduced a year ago by moving their investment elsewhere.

"We can't pretend that oil and gas investment levels haven't eroded," Energy Minister Ron Liepert said.

The province will move the maximum royalty rates for conventional oil — which doesn't include the oilsands — from 50 per cent down to 40 per cent. The top rate for natural gas will be 36 per cent, down from 50 per cent.

An incentive program introduced last year to dampen some of the effects of the new royalty framework will also now be made permanent. A five per cent royalty rate for new oil and gas wells was to have expired in 2011.

The government still needs to consult with industry precisely how royalty rates will be calculated, and those elements will be finalized by the end of May. The changes will take effect in January.

The net reduction in revenues, calculated with the cuts and higher land sales and taxes that will result from increased activity, works out to just under $200 million.

Food sabotaged again

Metal pins stuck in Co-Op food for fourth time this year

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Yet another incident of food tampering at a southwest Calgary Co-Op has the grocer warning shoppers to remain vigilant in checking food items bought from the store.

For the fourth time this year, metal pins were found in food by employees before the Oakridge Centre location opened on Thursday during a routine check, this time in packaged deli cheese items and flatbread, according to police.

Co-Op spokesperson Sara Boutron said security has been increased at the store, but was limited in details because she didn't want to compromise the police investigation.

"From our perspective, it's obviously quite alarming. We're urging our customers to remain vigilant and careful when looking at their product," Boutron said.

Calgary police are investigating the fourth food tampering incident at this southwest Calgary Co-Op store since January.

Earlier incidents

- The Oakridge Centre was first hit with the mysterious metal objects in various food items on Jan. 18, Jan. 19, and Feb. 17.

"This is their centre. This is where they shop. It's part of their community and they don't understand why someone would do this."

Most shoppers approaching the Co-Op Thursday agreed with Boutron and offered their support, including the Markopoulos couple.

"I can't believe anyone would do this. It's ridiculous, I just don't get why. But this is a great store, and we have been coming here for 20 years," they said.

Sgt. Don Coleman confirmed police have dedicated officers on the investigation, but wouldn't tip his hat to any possible leads.

"We have been working diligently on this. It concerning anytime the public is put at risk," he said.

TV Put on your dancing shoes and get ready to strut your stuff, Calgary — So You Think You Can Dance Canada is wrapping up auditions Saturday at the University of Calgary.

Guest judge, and Ed-

montonian, dancer Stacey Tooke says has a few tips for anyone looking to take their shot at dancing glory.

Just go in there with confidence and show us what you got, she said.

"Remember when you walk in there that we are on your side, we want you to do well, we want you to succeed," said Tooke.

Tooke said they are always looking for something unique for someone to be seen as a top dancer.

"Don't come in if you're not serious about it. Don't come in with an attitude, that's something judges don't like to see," said Tooke.

Tooke suggests bringing snacks and lunch in order to keep your energy up because it could be a long wait for an audition.

"Come out and wow us right away, cause you might have 30 seconds," she said.

Shred to beat identity theft

APRIL STUART
for Metro Calgary

Guarding your PIN number at the convenience store and carrying fewer pieces of ID are just two ways you can prevent identity theft.

Shredding personal documents is another, and it comes highly recommended by a sergeant from Calgary Police Service Crime Prevention.

"We are trying to get across to people that information about themselves is a commodity," said Wendy Mah, crime prevention co-ordinator for Alberta Motors Association, at a document-shredding event yesterday at the Kirby Centre.

USB drives, CDs, hard drives and other media contain personal information and must be treated similarly to your credit card in your wallet, said Mah.

"Identity theft is on the rise — Alberta has actually been statistically higher than the rest of the country," she said.

Waste and recycling

AMA's James Patterson drills a hard drive, in order to destroy any remaining information, at the Kirby Centre yesterday.

services asks those who shred their papers to place the destroyed documents into a clear plastic bag in order for it to be recycled.

If your identification is lost, Sgt. Dean Vegso suggests contacting the police, the bank, and any other issuers of the identification that went missing.

"By the time that victim realizes that their identity has been stolen and they call the police, sometimes a year has gone by," said Vegso.

Illegal gambling machines found in coffee shops: Police

BUST Police are calling a pair of illegal gambling operations allegedly operating inside two southeast billiards and coffee shops a rare occurrence.

On Wednesday, police raided Trung Nguyen Coffee & Billiard and say they found three illegal gaming machines, 10 kilograms of marijuana worth just over $100,000, 6.5 grams of codeine and almost $23,000 in cash.

A second raid on Nua Khuya — Midnight Billiards & Coffee Shop turned up four illegal machines.

Acting Staff Sgt. Mark Hatchette say the two are unrelated and three people face 16 criminal charges related to the machines allegedly taking bets and making payouts.

"We have not seen a lot of this in the city, it's a unique situation," he said. "We believe this is just scratching the surface when it comes to illegal gambling." KRISTA SYLVESTER/METRO CALGARY

Ottawa plans to give status to grandchildren

The federal government has introduced legislation to extend formal Indian status to the grandchildren of aboriginal women who married non-natives.

The change could add as many as 45,000 people to the Indian registry.

The bill, introduced in the Commons yesterday by Indian Affairs Minister Chuck Strahl, is in response to a 2009 B.C. court judgment that ruled a law denying Indian status to the grandchildren was discriminatory.

"It's a very narrow response to the B.C. court decision; they did what they minimally had to do," she said.

Mike Morrison
In Defence Of ...

The Calgary Zoo has been getting a lot of bad press lately.

Whether it was the tiger that attacked someone, the dozens of stingrays that went belly up, the gorilla with a knife, or the goat who just couldn't take it anymore, our poor beleaguered zoo simply can't seem to catch a break — and, unfortunately, neither can its animals.

After what seemed like an endless series of accidents, Calgarians have begun to lose faith in one of our city's most popular attractions.

Just this week the zoo welcomed a new 400-pound Siberian tiger, Baikal, and ever since then the city's dog parks have been empty. Surely that can't be a coincidence now, can it?

In my opinion, the Calgary Zoo is just suffering from a stroke of bad luck. Dead animals or not, it is still a world-class facility. One of the many reasons I love the Calgary Zoo is that it gives you the rare opportunity to see a menagerie of nearly extinct animals — sure, most of these animals aren't on the official endangered species list, but that just makes your zoo experience more unique.

You also have to respect an institution with such an interesting employment policy. Just like the zoo's poor capybara, thousands of Calgarians are having doors closed on them. It's no secret this city has become a difficult place to find a steady job, so it's great to know that practically anyone can get a job at the zoo.

And perhaps, at the end of the day, we can all decide that our zoo doesn't need (or shouldn't have) animals.

The Calgary Zoo is currently under review, which is probably a good thing. No matter how well we think things are running, it never hurts to take a step back and gain some perspective. We should never let our pride affect the treatment of animals, even if they are gross and slimy.

After all, Zoo Lights is always a great, local holiday favourite — as long as you don't mind the snakes at your feet!

Aftershocks mar Chilean president's inauguration

The earth shook Thursday as dignitaries walked in for the swearing-in of Sebastian Pinera as Chile's president.

The president and his ministers then quickly swore their oaths, and the audience of 2,000 headed for the exits, joining an evacuation called out of concern that Thursday's repeated aftershocks would set off another tsunami.

Inauguration Day was peppered with more than a dozen significant aftershocks, amply demonstrating Pinera's challenges after last month's magnitude-8.8 quake, one of the biggest in modern history.

Chile's first elected right-wing president in 52 years won office promising to improve the economy. He says he'll be the "reconstruction president." His advice to citizens: "Let's dry our tears and put our hands to work."

But relief efforts stalled Thursday as more than 10 earthquakes shook Chile in a span of six hours. The strongest, at 6.9, nearly matched the 7.0-magnitude quake that devastated Haiti on Jan. 12.

Pinera said there were no reports of more deaths, but a key highway suffered more damage in the inland city of Rancagua, and violent waves hit the coastal towns of Pichilemu and Bucalemu, Interior Minister Rodrigo Hinzpeter said.

Pinera urged citizens to heed the Chilean navy's tsunami warning and seek higher ground. Then he made a show of normality, greeting other presidents for lunch at the Cerro Castillo summer palace, where he left them and boarded a helicopter to tour disaster areas.

The inauguration had lasted just 30 minutes, marked by three of the aftershocks. One prompted Colombia's Alvaro Uribe to leave the hall for several minutes. Outgoing president Michelle Bachelet sat unperturbed as a nearby flower arrangement rocked back and forth.

Condom fight erupts in Italy

The decision by a Rome high school to install condom vending machines has set off a storm in Italy, with the Catholic Church charging the move will encourage young people to have sex and Rome's mayor saying it sends the wrong message.

But the Keplero high school vowed Thursday to go ahead with its experiment, billed as the first in the capital. While it's a relative novelty for Italy, schools in several other European countries have installed the machines in hopes of curbing teen pregnancy and HIV.

"This is not about stimulating the use of condoms or intercourse," Antonio Panaccione, the school headmaster, said. "On the contrary, it's about prevention and education."

The school plans to install six vending machines as part of educating students about sexuality and HIV protection. The price: $2.70 US for a pack of three.

Cardinal Agostino Vallini, the pope's vicar for Rome, said the decision "cannot be approved by Rome's ecclesiastical community or by Christian families who are seriously concerned with the education of their children."

The newspaper of the Italian Bishops' Conference said Thursday that sex was being reduced to "mere physical exercise." The newspaper, L'Avvenire, lamented that young people these days have no spiritual guidance on sexuality, and that educators are more concerned with "the health and hygiene consequences of sex" than its moral implications.

The Vatican opposes artificial contraception. Catholic teaching views sex as a means for procreation within marriage.

French voters set to make left turn

ELECTION Voters hit by France's worst recession since the Second World War get a chance to voice their frustration in an election that starts Sunday and is likely to leave opposition Socialists in charge of most regional governments.

The usually confident President Nicolas Sarkozy is likely to emerge the loser, halfway through a term he vowed would transform France into an economic powerhouse.

The president's approval ratings are below 40 per cent, and Socialists secured 20 of 22 regions on mainland France in the last elections in 2004.

Student? Time to do your taxes

Available tax credits make it worth the effort of filing

Most students wouldn't place taxes at the top of their to-do list, when hammering out essays and cramming for exams demands pretty much their full attention.

But filing a tax return has its perks — even if the task seems daunting.

Students who have little or no income may wonder whether it's worthwhile to even file a return if they don't owe anything to the tax man.

For one thing, at age 19 Canadians become eligible to collect a quarterly GST/HST credit, which lasts for however long they remain in a low tax bracket. But no cheques will come in the mail if the government doesn't have your tax information on hand.

"That's free money as far as I'm concerned," said Cleo Hamel, a senior tax analyst with H&R Block.

There are a number of tax credits available, which cover tuition and many of the other expenses that come with student life.

"These are credits that are just being handed to you. You need to file a tax return so that those credits can be registered on your tax account," said Hamel.

Full-time students are eligible for a monthly $400 education credit and part-time students can get a $120 credit. They may also get a textbook tax credit of $65 for every month they qualify for the education amount. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Economy finally ready for real growth: RBC

GDP A new forecast from RBC Economics says Canada's economy is poised for real GDP growth of 3.1 per cent this year and 3.9 per cent in 2011.

It says a peak in stimulus investment, improved credit markets and a recovery in consumer spending are fuelling the increase.

Chief economist Craig Wright says a recovery is "solidly taking root in Canada" also due to low interest rates and improved credit markets. He says strength in the housing market and investment by the private sector should provoke additional economic growth.

RBC adds consumer spending is expected to expand next year by 2.8 per cent and business investment by more than seven per cent.

MPs want answers from Transport Canada

TOYOTA Transport Canada came under fire from MPs yesterday over its handling of safety concerns with Toyota vehicles after disclosing that authorities had received 17 acceleration-related complaints before last fall's recall.

Department officials were called on the carpet by opposition MPs at a committee meeting to answer why they did not respond more quickly to the problems.

And one MP on the Commons transport committee accused the department of having too cosy a relationship with Toyota Canada, noting it had applauded the automaker's efforts in issuing a recall last fall.

Since then, the world's No. 1 automaker has got a black eye over mounting concerns about the safety of its vehicles, resulting in a string of embarrassing admissions and recalls involving more than eight million vehicles worldwide.

Of those, some 270,000 have been recalled in Canada.

Transport officials defended their response and noted there had been no confirmed cases of fatalities in Canada.

Officials said they were not aware of any complaints of a "sticky pedal" until Toyota informed the department in January it had received five.

Sony targets Nintendo

Unveils motion controller

Sony has a new message for Nintendo Wii gamers: Come join us.

The Japanese maker of the PlayStation 3 unveiled Thursday its highly anticipated motion controlling system, as it takes aim at Nintendo's dominance in the gaming sector. With the PlayStation Move, Sony hopes to lure gamers who have outgrown Nintendo, which launched the Wii in 2006 and became the first to introduce motion-detecting controllers.

Peter Dille, senior vice-president of marketing for Sony Computer Entertainment, credited Nintendo for "introducing motion gaming to the masses."

Now it's time for them to graduate to the PlayStation, which offers a new

Used with the existing PlayStation Eye camera, Sony's new wireless motion controller can track players' body movements. The controller, in turn, has on its end a light-emitting orb that is recognized by the camera.

The PlayStation Move will go on sale this fall. A starter bundle will retail for under $100, Dille said.

Tiger won't be back before Masters: Sources

GOLF Tiger Woods intends to remain out of golf at least until the Masters, two people with knowledge of his plans have told The Associated Press.

Woods has been practising at Isleworth near his Orlando home the last two weeks, and swing coach Hank Haney flew there during the weekend to work with him. That led to speculation Thursday he was close to playing again.

The two people, who spoke on condition of anonymity because only Woods is supposed to release such information, say he is likely to play first at Augusta National in April.

The only other time Woods played a major after such a long layoff was the 2006 U.S. Open at Winged Foot, when he was out nine weeks coping with his father's death. That's where he missed the cut for the first time at a major.

Woods has not played since Nov. 15, when he won the Australian Masters in Melbourne for his 82nd career victory.

stars, Ronaldo of Portugal, Rooney of England and Torres of Spain, but only playing on TV," says Harold Moyo, a worker at the Soccer City stadium. "But this is special because it's the only time we will see them playing live and on our home soil and we are very proud of it."

When first considering a voyage to South Africa, the host country of the 2010 FIFA World Cup, it was not without trepidation.

Crime, poverty and fear had an impact on what has always been a narrow appreciation of sport. South Africa, and Johannesburg in particular, present new waters to navigate. They also force an acceptance that most barriers can be broken down on the Earth's fields of play.

At the spectacular Soccer City stadium in Soweto, once the scene of so much strife in a racially divided country, there is now a palpable feeling that those days may be extinct. They just might be replaced by the pride that the black majority will feel when 89,000-plus gather in the sparkling new monument to a beloved game.

When Mexico and South Africa open the World Cup in early June they will do so just down the street from the dilapidated metal shacks and the memories of apartheid. The scars of a wounded society remain. Most of the people here can't afford a ticket — they can't even dream of it.

Still, they are determined to be gracious and willing hosts.

"We have seen those al icons such as Lionel Messi of Argentina, Thierry Henry of France and Kaka, the brilliant, Brazilian midfielder. Such is the universal recognition that the World Cup in Africa is a good thing, not just for sport, but also for human beings who are devoted to the "Beautiful Game."

"These are our country's most disadvantaged children," says Makhotso Sambo, the school's principal. "But in the World Cup and the players who come, they will see that maybe there is something better in their future if they work hard."

In Soweto, it seems, there's not a lot to fear. Instead, hope springs eternal in what is, for now, the world's most important soccer city.

Ontario finished with a perfect round-robin record at the Tim Hortons Brier, and skip Glenn Howard believes his team is just getting warmed up.

Howard led his veteran rink to an 11-0 record heading into the playoffs this weekend with a 7-6 win over Kevin Koe's Alberta rink in the Brier's round-robin finale Thursday.

By defeating Koe, Howard's foursome is on track to become the third straight team to run the table at the Brier.

"What I like the best is we started a little slow at the beginning of the week, but we have just gotten better and better," Howard said. "My guys are making everything. It's just a great feeling, from a confidence perspective, for all four of us."

Remember acting, not twist

Remember Me

Director: Allen Coulter

Rating: ●●●●

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

The new Robert Pattinson vehicle, Remember Me, is basically Ordinary People updated for the Death Cab for Cutie set, with a big "twist" ending that some will see coming from the first 10 minutes.

The problem is the twist adds nothing to the characters or story, really, and comes off feeling like a cheap gotcha move. The less said about it, the better.

On the other hand, perhaps the best thing about the movie is that watching it, all the hype about Twilight hunk Pattinson finally makes sense, since he's finally been given something to do besides mope and sparkle.

Robert Pattinson and Emilie de Ravin turn up the romantic heat in Remember Me.

He stars as college student Tyler Hawkins, the now-oldest child of a rich New York City family fractured by tragedy.

Some might find his performance a little overdone in spots, but it perfectly captures the emotional confusion of that age.

Under somewhat false pretenses, he starts dating fellow student Ally (Emilie de Ravin), also from a family fractured by tragedy, though much lower down the financial totem pole.

The film is as much de Ravin's as it is Pattinson's, and she is lovely.

Pierce Brosnan, Chris Cooper and Lena Olin turn in strong supporting performances as the parents of the young lovers. The course of Tyler and Ally's relationship — and how they help each other heal their respective families' wounds — is nicely told and affecting. It's just a shame the filmmakers couldn't leave it at that.

Politics, action don't gel in Zone

Green ZoneDirector: Paul GreengrassStars: Matt Damon, Greg Kinnear, Amy RyanClassification: 14ARating: ●●●●

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Green Zone is a curious new creation by the Bourne Ultimatum actor/director team of Matt Damon and Paul Greengrass.

The film wants to be both a complicated drama about the questionable motives behind the U.S. invasion of Iraq and a relentless action thriller.

Each element is done well in isolated sequences, but they are awkwardly shoe-horned together into a two-hour running time that can barely contain all of the ideas and explosions.

Had the filmmakers focused on making either an intimate political drama or a popcorn action flick, this could have been an excellent film. Instead it's merely a muddled, but interesting movie that should have been more.

Damon stars in action hero mode as a soldier whose missions to discover WMDs keep turning up empty despite constant casualties on both sides.

He tries to uncover the truth and learns that all of the intelligence reports are coming from questionable sources, the CIA doesn't seem to know what's going on, and a high profile American journalist is writing articles about an informant in Iraq who might not exist.

It's a big complicated mess, not unlike what really happened in Iraq.

But with consistent action beats coming every 15-20 minutes, it can be frustrating to slingshot from confusion to stylized battles.

The actors are well cast and the production is expertly executed, but something about the balance just doesn't seem right and it quickly becomes distracting.

Part of this comes down to director Greengrass who creates films with an inordinate emphasis on realism.

Green Zone is shot with

an endlessly shaking documentary-style camera and features an incredibly detailed production design that puts the audience in the heart of the battle.

But the plot is laid in such a conventional matter that it will often take viewers out of the immersive experience.

So much of Green Zone is done well that it's an impossible movie to hate, but it doesn't add up to more than a sum of its impressive parts.

Vulgar from the heart

She's Out Of My League

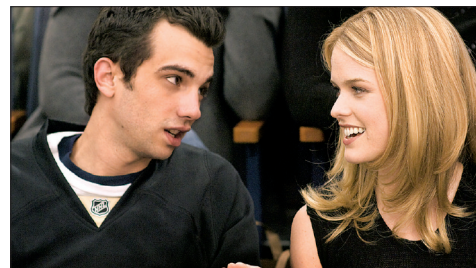

Director: Jim Field Smith

Stars: Jay Baruchel, Alice Eve

Classification: 14A

Rating: ●●●●

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

Jay Baruchel and Alice Eve star in She's Out of My League.

Every now and again you witness a guy dating a woman who is far too gorgeous for him and you ponder, "why would she be with that dude?"

Now first-time director Jim Field Smith aims to answer that very conundrum with his better-than-it-looks comedy, She's Out of My League.

Starring Montreal's Jay Baruchel in his first big-budget leading role, the Knocked Up scene-stealer capitalizes on his lanky structure and geeky demeanour as Kirk, a humble airport employee who reluctantly meets a blonde beauty (Alice Eve) when she leaves her iPhone at airport security. However, even though a natural attraction develops between the pair, Kirk and his misguided slacker buddies nay-say the seduction into submission, saddled mostly by Kirk's ultimate disbelief that he could land a "hard 10."

A familiar storyline that could've easily been forgettable, Smith smartly aims for the groin by punctuating a formulaic film with seat-squirming indecency.

Following the similar gross-out style mastered by the Farrelly Brothers, the most memorable moments of League come courtesy of excruciating sequences involving guys' genital grooming and premature ejaculation.

If you can look beyond that level of vulgarity, this comedy reveals its true humanity — a kind-hearted look at earnest love in spite of all its insecurities.

Which is what makes this a perfect launch pad for its star. With an awkward sensitivity, Baruchel expertly captures the loser that hides within all of us with a subtlety that's truly believable amongst the mayhem. Besides, if he can land a "hard 10," there's hope for the rest of us!

Cattrall takes on politics

SATC actress teams up with Polanski for The Ghost Writer

NED EHRBAR
for Metro Canada

While she may be a star of one of those most well-known and successful franchises in TV and film history, Sex and the City star Kim Cattrall was still more than a little starstruck at the prospect of working for director Roman Polanski in his latest film, The Ghost Writer.

"It's unbelievable," she says, speaking to Metro by phone from London, where she's starring in Noel Coward's Private Lives in the West End. "My agent called me and said, 'Roman wants to talk to you.' I was like, 'What? Roman Polanski is going to call me. OK."

The stage and screen veteran found the equally celebrated and scandal-prone director charming. "He's incredibly witty and funny," she says.

"He's got a cheeky sense of humour. He's also tough. Sometimes he seems impossible to please. But he's a perfectionist, and perfectionists can drive you insane, but they can also inspire you to work incredibly hard."

Cattrall insists she didn't mind Polanski's taskmaster tendencies. "The stakes were high all the time. We would shoot some scenes initially in 40 minutes. If we didn't get it in 40 minutes within five or six takes, we weren't going to get the scene," she remembers. "It literally was like a machine, and he was the leader of it. It felt sometimes like going into battle, and he was our leader."

In The Ghost Writer — in theatres Friday — Cattrall plays Amelia Bly, the inscrutable personal secretary to former British Prime Minister Adam Lang (Pierce Brosnan).

What's with the Viagra?

Our Family WeddingDirector: Rick FamuyiwaStars: America Ferrera, Lance GrossClassification: PGRating: ●●●NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

REVIEW In his new culture-clash comedy, Our Family Wedding, director Rick Famuyiwa tries to get beyond racial clichés by reveling in them. This, unfortunately, doesn't work at all.

Instead he presents an all-over-the-place muddle with a tone as mismatched as the cast, jumping between maudlin family moments and cheap gags involving Viagra and a goat.

The wedding of the title is between med school graduate Marcus (Lance Gross) and Lucia (America Ferrera), who've come back to Los Angeles to tell their families that they're dating, they're engaged and they're getting married in three weeks before Marcus heads off to work for Doctors Without Borders with Lucia in tow.

Their fathers (Forrest Whitaker and Carlos Mencia) butt heads as the families rally to put together a wedding that mixes both cultures, and it's really all downhill from there, culminating in the aforementioned goat — hopped up on Viagra — sexually assaulting an Academy Award-winning actor.

Brosnan's more than Mr. Bond

InFocus

Richard Crouse

metronews.ca/infocus

Pierce Brosnan has never been nominated for an Oscar. He has a couple Golden Globe nods to his credit and an MTV Movie Best Fight Award statuette on his shelf, but so far the heavy gold has evaded him.

Perhaps because of his dapper good looks he doesn't get spoken about in the same breath as Colin Firth or Morgan Freeman. Perhaps a resume dotted with films like Dante's Peak knocks him down a peg or two in the Academy's opinion.

Or maybe it's his predilection for doing shamelessly populist fare like Mama Mia and this weekend's Remem- ber Me (co-starring as Robert Pattinson's father) that keeps him from being taken as seriously as say, George Clooney, another genetically blessed actor, who, like Brosnan, got his big break on television.

He could have been nominated for his work in The Matador, a little seen, but critically lauded film from 2005. In it Brosnan plays Julian Noble a jaded hit man, or "facilitator of fatalities" who finds a confidant in a struggling businessman, played by Greg Kinnear.

Brosnan's performance as Julian, the hit man who develops confidence problems, is a revelation. We have seen Brosnan as the slickly comic private eye Remington Steele on television, the sophisticated James Bond and even as the suave jewel thief in The Thomas Crown Affair but until now we have never seen him in Beatle boots and a Speedo traipsing across a hotel lobby.

His Julian is a manic creation — amoral, rude and Pierce Brosnan may have never received the credit he deserves, but that might change with his role in The Ghost Writer, columnist Richard Crouse says.

unlike Bond, the character that has defined his career for the last decade, unshaven.

With this one performance Brosnan entered a new phase in his career, effortlessly leaving the urbane Bond behind.

Maybe next year he'll finally get the recognition he deserves when the Academy gets a load of his work in The Ghost Writer. As ex-prime minister Adam Lang he embodies the role, like he was born for photo ops in front of private jets, waving to his constituents.

It's good work that effectively erased the image of him as a half man / half horse in the recent film Percy Jackson and the Olympians.

Despite the odd misstep, he is an interesting actor who deserves more respect than he gets.

If the movie gods can allow Mon'ique to go from co-starring in Beerfest to winning a Best Supporting Actress Oscar, surely they can ignore Brosnan's silly beard in an ill conceived Robinson Crusoe remake or the non-thriller Live Wire and finally give him his due.

Labour of Love

Hole frontwoman dishes on colourful past

SoundCheck

Alan Cross

metronews.ca/soundcheck

Courtney Love wants to talk. And she does — for almost two hours.

The occasion is the release of Skinny Little B—, the solid first single from Nobody's Daughter, the first Hole album since 1998's Celebrity Skin.

"The disaster record (her 2004 solo album, America's Sweetheart) didn't count any more than Mick Jagger should count She's the Boss (his 1985 solo bomb)."

Over the course of our conversation, which included countless stream-of-consciousness detours, unexpected tangents, name-drops and revelations, I learned the following:

- After a stint as a stripper in Japan in the early '80s, Courtney had designs on being a record producer. She dropped into Windmill Lane studios in Dublin to drop off a resume ended up working with U2 on October for five days "before I was fired." She didn't mention why.

- She almost had Mariah Carey sing back-up on Nobody's Daughter, which would have required her to sing some interesting profanities. Sadly, it wasn't meant to be.

- Courtney didn't write a song for almost four years because she had become far too comfortable in her Beverly Hills home, but then she was hit with her own financial crisis. "Frances (her daughter) getting me out of L.A. was really good because I wasn't leaving the house. We had some very scary times. They froze my bank account. I had 120 bucks. I've been poor before — but maybe it's good with checking in to be poor because then you get hungry again." She sought out Duff McKagan (Guns 'N Roses, Velvet Revolver) for financial advice because he has an MBA and writes a financial column.

- Both she and husband Kurt Cobain disagreed on the choice of Smells Like Teen Spirit as the first single from Nevermind. They both wanted In Bloom while the record company initially wanted Lithium.

- Courtney is pressing ahead with the bio-pic on Kurt called Heavier Than Heaven. She knows who has been cast in the lead roles but she won't say any more than that.

- She also has an idea for a Lollapalooza-like festival and is currently trying to enlist support from her circle of celebrity friends.

There's more — some of which you can hear for yourself at explore-music.com — but it's going to take me a while to sort through the rest of the interview. Nobody's Daughter will finally be released April 27.

Nobody's Daughter, the first album from Hole in 12 years, will be out on April 27.

A new Hendrix experience

Jimi Hendrix

Album: Valleys of Neptune

Label: Sony Music

Rating: ⓈⓈⓈ

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM
for Metro Canada

DON'T GET

the hype. Valleys of Neptune is not the Hendrix holy grail. Not even close. While it is several notches above previous posthumous releases (First Rays of the Rising Sun excluded), Valleys of Neptune remains a compendium of outtakes and warm-up tracks. There is little here that approaches the genius so evident in the albums released during Hendrix's all-too short life. The majority of these 12 studio tracks were recorded in the spring of 1969. It was a turbulent time for the Jimi Hendrix Experience. Bassist Noel Redding left part way through, replaced by Billy Cox.

Eddie Kramer, original soundman the Hendrix originals, has lovingly remastered the recordings, but still the magic isn't there.

There are three reworkings of songs dating from 1967's Are You Experienced — Stone Free, Fire and Red House. It's hard to imagine Hendrix, ever wanting them released. There is also Hendrix's instrumental take on the Cream hit Sunshine of Your Love. Fans would like to point to this as proof Hendrix was better than Eric Clapton. There's no knockout punch here, though.

The fiery solos on the blues tracks Hear My Train A Comin' and Ships Passing Through the Night are the only real standouts.

Better news for Hendrix fans is Sony's release this week of remastered versions of the guitar wizard's core catalogue — Are You Experienced, Axis: Bold as Love, Electric Ladyland, Band of Gypsies and the posthumous First Rays of the Rising Sun. With new liner notes and accompanying DVDs detailing the process each record was made, these repackaged works are must haves for Hendrix fans.

If you still have a hunger for Hendrix, then — and only then — go out and buy Valleys of Neptune.

Television

Conan to tour North America

Without a TV show to do every night, Conan O'Brien is taking his act on the road. And he's stopping in Canada.

The former Tonight Show host announced a 30-city theatre tour on Thursday. Sidekick Andy Richter and the former Tonight Show band will join O'Brien for what he calls "a night of music, comedy, hugging and the occasional awkward silence."

The tour, called The Legally Prohibited from Being Funny on Television Tour, begins April 12 in Eugene, Ore., and he's in Vancouver the next two nights. He's in Enoch, Alta., on April 17 and Toronto on May 22.

O'Brien quipped: "It was either a massive 30-city tour or start helping out around the house."

O'Brien quit The Tonight Show in January instead of taking NBC's offer to move his start time back by a half-hour. Jay Leno is back in his old slot. O'Brien hasn't announced any future television plans.

The cheapest ticket in Toronto and Vancouver is $58.13 after fees and go as high as $103.13. A special "hot seat" ticket $262.63.

Prices are more expensive at the Enoch show, at the River Cree Resort & Casino, with regular tickets ranging from $97.50 to $137.50 after fees. A special meet and greet with O'Brien goes for $695 per person.

For a complete list of tour dates and ticket information visit teamco.co.com.

Have a drink like Don Draper

TINA CHADHA
Metro World News

Hmmm, so you're a world class whiskey expert?

All those episodes of Mad Men have you craving cigarettes and whiskey? Glenfiddich brand ambassador helps us learn more about dad's drink.

Blame it on our ongoing obsession with Mad Men or the freezing cold weather, but we want to be badass and throw back a whiskey the next time we go out.

Heather Greene — brand ambassador of Glenfiddich and one of the world's only female whiskey experts — shows us how to order Don's drink in style.

We traditionally think of whiskey as the domain of older men. I think that changing. It's fun to be at this position as a woman — it adds an element of surprise.

What's the difference between whiskey and scotch?

Scotch is a whiskey. Whiskey is the umbrella term and underneath that you have scotch, bourbon, rye, Canadian whiskey, Japanese whiskey ... Scotland is the godfather of whiskey, so it has its own category — whiskey from Scotland is scotch.

Scotch is such a huge category it's actually divided into two: You either have blended scotches or single malt scotches.

What's your drink of choice at bars?

Lately, it's Glenfiddich 12 Old Fashioned, which is Donald Draper's favourite drink. You put that on ice and it's a cocktail in and of itself. It's affordable, it's really good. It has a nice silky vanilla pear overtone to it.

What's a single malt?

Single malt is made with water, yeast and barley and it's distilled in pot stills and condensed. Then it's put in beautiful barrels to age for a minimum of three years — that's when you have your single malt scotch. It's quite a process and a very artisanal world.

So, what's blended scotch?

Single means one single distillery. In a blended scotch, you can take up to 30 to 40 different distilleries and blend them together. You don't have to use just water, yeast and barley. They can use any kind of grain.

Actor Jon Hamm plays Donald Draper on Mad Men.

Someone is missing from Top Model

IAN JOHNSTON
for Metro Canada

Is the fashion world ready for a disabled model?

Probably not, says Sophie Morgan, one of eight disabled women vying for a modeling career on the reality series Britain's Missing Top Model.

"I loved that the show raised that question and tried to answer it," says Morgan, who was paralyzed below her chest in a car accident six years ago. "And I think the disabled have every right to share that catwalk."

"But whether the fashion world is ready and you can make a living at it, I have to honestly say not yet."

Britain's Missing Top Model explores that question in great detail as it puts its contestants — who have disabilities as varied as deafness, missing limbs and brain injuries —

"I think the disabled have every right to share that catwalk."

Sophie Morgan,
BMTM contestant

through their supermodel paces as they vie for a modeling contract and a magazine shoot.

BMTM best resembles your typical model search show but one that challenges society's preconceptions on beauty.

"I was worried the show would be handled badly," says the Sussex-born Morgan, the only contestant in a wheelchair.

"But in the end, I decided it would be a challenge and a weird thing to do."

"So I did it. And I enjoyed it. And it definitely taught me things and gave me more confidence."

Confidence — apparently — that made her realize she didn't want to be a model.

"It sort of pushed me away from modeling. I didn't like how the models were treated and how they didn't have a voice. It was all about clothes," she says.

A lot of Morgan's time these days is spent as the spokeswoman for IMPERFECT, an organization that functions as both a support group and an activist group that draws attention to cases of disability discrimination.

"It's aimed at inspiring self-confidence and empowering disabled people to stand up for themselves."

A sneak peak ...

- You can catch a sneak peak of Britain's Missing Top Model on One this Saturday and Sunday night.
- It then moves to its regular time slot on Monday nights.

Sophie Morgan is one of eight contestants on the show.

Producers honour American veterans

PREMIER Tom Hanks, Steven Spielberg and Elizabeth Dole joined 250 veterans at the Second World War memorial in Washington to honour their service.

HBO brought the veterans to the memorial Thursday to coincide with the network's premiere of a 10-part series called The Pacific. Hanks and Spielberg are part of the production team, following their Band of Brothers miniseries in 2001. The series begins Sunday.

It focuses on the lives of U.S. Marines fighting the Japanese after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The veterans came from Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia and Orlando, Fla.

She's dancing for the kids

NOT THE CELEBRITY STATUS, SWAG AND OODLES OF MONEY Kate Gosselin is a mom on a mission: Win the mirror-ball trophy on Dancing with the Stars, people.com reports.

But whether she'll pull it off is another story. The mother of eight says there's just a slight obstacle — dancing, it turns out, isn't her forte.

"I do want to win. It's just that the dancing part is getting in the way of winning," she tells People in the new issue.

"In my mind, I'm winning. In my actions, not so much."

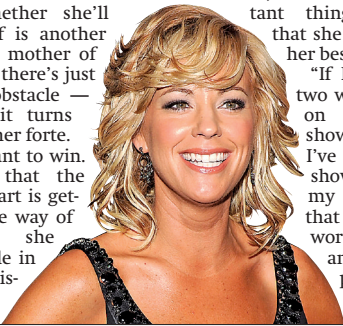

Gosselin, 34, says that no matter how long she manages to hold out on DWTS, the important thing is that she does her best.

"If I last two weeks on the show, I've shown my kids that hard work and perseverance pays off," says Gosselin, whose pro partner is Tony Dovolani.

"And if I don't win, I've shown them you don't always have to come in first. You just have to keep on trying."

The new season of DWTS, with Brooke Burke replacing Samantha Harris as co-host, begins March 22.

Gosselin will be waltzing her way to the top, competing against actresses Pamela Anderson and Shannen Doherty, astronaut Buzz Aldrin and Bachelor star Jake Pavelka, among others.

Settling into the new pad

IT'S GOT MANLY METAL BARS AND A COOL BUNK BED As of Monday, rapper Lil Wayne has a new moniker: Inmate Carter, people.com reports.

The platinum-selling artist (real name: Dwayne Michael Carter Jr.), who began his year-long jail sentence for gun possession on Monday, is facing a lot of new circumstances these days.

The rapper is living among the general population of inmates at the Eric M. Taylor Center (a facility for sentenced males on Riker's Island), but he is also afforded a low level of protective custody, due to his public profile.

"Inmate Carter is in a category of housing that we call 'general population/escort,'" a New York City Department of Corrections official tells People.

That means when he leaves the housing area (his cell or the day room), he will have a captain escorting him at all times.

On an hourly basis, the rapper can decide if he wants to be locked in his cell or locked out of it — for security reasons, inmates are not allowed to freely move between their cell and the common areas.

"My trip led me to some epiphanies about who I was as a performer, what I wanted to do and how I needed to create my own opportunities," he says.

"When I got home, I started writing music with other people and went to the Idol audition. The vision was about finding opportunities."

Repaying kindness with coffee

GOOD THING SHE HAS A FLEET OF PHOTOGRAPHERS FOLLOWING HER. THAT PARKING TICKET WOULD HAVE REALLY GOUGED HER Renée Zellweger is very pleased with the paparazzi, usmagazine.com reports.

On Wednesday, the actress, 40, was in the middle of ordering drinks at a Starbucks in Santa Monica, Calif., when a paparazzo outside noticed her parking metre was about to expire.

To save her from getting a ticket, he slipped a few coins in the meter.

Appreciative, Zellweger — who is now dating Bradley Cooper — returned to the coffee chain, bought a $100 gift card and rewarded the photographer.

On the back of the card, she personally expressed her gratitude: "Wow. Thank you so much for the kindness," she wrote.

"Warmly, with gratitude. Renée."

Doesn't want a tainted rep

TALKING EXPLICITLY ABOUT YOUR SEX LIFE IS THE OBVIOUS WAY TO GO In a remarkably candid interview with Men's Health magazine, Gerard Butler admits that since he's become famous he's grown paranoid about having sex.

"I get laid less now than I used to, because I'm way more paranoid now," he says.

"I mean, I'm nowhere near as naughty as I used to be, partly because I did a lot of that when I was drinking."

But he insists he hasn't become celibate.

"I'm not saying I've cut that part out. I'm certainly no angel. There's no smoke without fire."
